mnda motor neurone disease association

There are many ways to fundraise in schools, colleges and universities. Get as many people involved by explaining what MND is, how it affects lives and how donations make a difference. The more people understand, the more likely they are to support your efforts.

Plan your event

Permission
Before you begin fundraising, ask for permission from your school, college or university! They may have approved charities or safeguarding guidelines in place.

Engage
Plan a fundraiser that brings as many people together as possible, making it fun and inclusive so everyone can take part.

Promote
The more people hear about your event, the greater the chance of success. Take a look at our guide on promoting your event.

How to pay donations in
If you use an online fundraising page, you don't need to do anything. The fund will be sent to us automatically. If you have any cash donations or cheques, find out how you can pay them in.

School fundraising

Dress down days
Non-uniform day! Wear orange & blue for MND, dress as your favourite character or rock your pyjamas. Ask for a small donation to join in.

Bake sale
Put on your apron and bake some tasty treats to sell, add a theme to make it extra fun! Check out our resources.

Sponsored events
To highlight that many people with MND lose their voice, consider a sponsored silence or raise funds with sponsored walks, runs or read-a-thons.

Shhh...

Movie night
Show a film on the big screen, indoors or outside and ask for ticket donations. Add popcorn and snacks for even more fundraising opportunities!

Charity of the Year
Support the MND Association all year round by making us your Charity of the Year.

College fundraising

Sports tournaments
Set up a football, cricket or e-sports tournament. Players pay to enter and winners get bragging rights.

Car wash
Perfect for summer, have fun in the sun while fundraising.

Pre-loved sale
Clear out your clutter and raise money for charity.

TikTok challenge
Set a creative challenge, from a dance to an art task and get students to share online. Hit the "Support Nonprofit" sticker and nominate the MND Association so viewers can donate.
