

Tracy and Iain

End of life decisions and planning ahead

Tracy

I was very adamant that I didn't want to be needing all these things to help me. But when reality kicked in, it was devastating to hear that I needed to have them to survive longer.

Iain

I think some of Tracy's, well, immediate family were in denial about it.

I think Tracy was a bit in denial as well about where this was heading, whereas I had done quite a lot of research and I knew exactly where this was heading.

I don't think certain people didn't, they just couldn't stand the fact that they were in denial. We know what was going on. Would you agree?
